Description

Hi all,

I've also found a peculiar problem when creating new polygons. After finishing drawing the polygon, the attribute window that pops up to let the user enter in the attribute data associated with the particular new polygon is blank. On the other hand, new point creation still pops up with the attribute data entry fields correctly.

Works here.
Can you make sure, that in "layer properties" => "Fields", the combobox for "attribute editor layout" is set to "Autogenerate" and no python init function is defined.

I also does not confirm.

Thanks Matthias. You are correct. It was not set to autogenerate by default. After selecting autogenerate it works fine.
