Description

Right now, the identity result panel is only init'ed upon selecting the identity tool. It's problematic now that the feature relies on a panel for a couple of reasons:

1/ The Identity Result item isn't present when you right-click the toolbar which can be odd; but more importantly

2/ If you place the Identity Result panel as a tab sharing the same space as another panels (for e.g. layers and/or browser), the tab isn't present until you use the identity tool at least once. See screenshot of how nice such a setup can be:

Solution would be for the identity result panel to be init'ed upon qgis launch.
