Description
Select the map extent should be available for all the processing tools and not only for some. Perhaps it is worth thinking of introducing something similar to "environment" that ARCGIS has got? Without the possibility of setting a map extent for a project, there are too many problems with all the raster operations carried out within the project. thank you

Can you explain this a bit more? It is not really clear why we need to have extent parameter in all algorithms

I still think this is a good suggestion. AFAICT, Iliaria is suggesting to have something similar to the Region definition for GRASS: an optional default area in which all subsequent analyses are run.
