Description
Here the link of the official webpage http://docs.qgis.org/2.8/en/docs/documentation_guidelines/README.html#documenting-processing-algorithms some points are outdated: <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>- SAGA help files are not available anymore</li><li>- it is quite difficult for a potential doc writer to understand where the files are located</li><li>- QGIS algs have .yaml syntax</li><li>- maybe it is worth to have a standard template for all the providers (at the moment gdal/ogr points to their own docs, SAGA are missing, GRASS and TauDEM have their own..)</li></ul>

I was about closing this one but rather simply made a copy at <https://github.com/qgis/QGIS-Documentation/issues/1308> (because not really clear/sure whether processing algs documentation should be in the user manual or in the application)
