Description

In the version 2.14 (all releases) of Qgis both for windows and mac when I try to convert a dxf in shp the software crashes. The same dxf causes no problem in the version 2.8 (even if the exportation was not correct in terms of position and scale). Here below is attached a dxf exported from archicad that I needed to convert, but dxf exported from qgis as well causes crashes. It contains polylines, polygons and texts.

The version 2.16 as well crashes.

QGIS a9850ae from master_2 (2.18-pre) running on Ubuntu 16.04 64bit imports polylines and polygons and points from the example DXF w/out crashing, including export of inserts and text labels. Do you have a chance to test it your side, Elia ?

I could not reproduce with final-2_16_3-45-g61a0a1e either (from the 2.16 branch). Which version did you try exactly, Elia ?

And, which were the exact steps to reproduce ? (did you select polyline, polygon or point - and did you check any of "export of inserts" and "export of text labels" ?)

I tried with 2.14.3, 2.14.5, 2.14.7 and 2.16.2.

Checking and unchecking all the option and with all the 3 kind of object. It always crash. It does not crash if I drag the dxf from the browser panel giving me the point, polygon and polylines entities.

Then I guess it's platform specific ? Can you obtain a valgrind report or gdb stacktrace ?
