Reopened because master (010cb1567b) still does not sort bookmarks.

I used Python Console to find the bookmarks list, on which isSortingEnabled() is false. Then using setSortingEnabled(True) does allow sorting.

2.18.15 does sort.

Thanks for the feedback, I've made a PR with the fixes, <https://github.com/qgis/QGIS/pull/5852>

I'd appreciate if you could test them when committed.

Thanks for the attention, I will test as soon as I can.

Two minor things have occurred to me.

1. The sorting probably should be case insensitive. I believe most users would appreciate this.
2. The SRID column more properly should be CRS or possibly Projection, in keeping with usage elsewhere.

Please see #17674 export/import issues

Alessandro,

I have tested the Spatial Bookmarks fixes in master (ea49c8276c latest rev. I tried) and believe they are working correctly.

- creating bookmarks
- moving bookmarks to/from project, including saving/loading project
- exporting
- importing, including starting with no bookmarks

- sorting various columns
- editing bookmarks (SRID can't be edited with the current implementation)

I have also tested internationalization, which hasn't been mentioned as a problem, but I did think to test -- this is OK.

I used Python Console to update a bookmark's extent, by finding the `IstBookmarks` object and setting the `x...`, `y...` values and the `srld` value, too.

I would very much appreciate the two items in my previous comment being implemented. I have tried `setSortCaseSensitivity(Qt::CaseInsensitive)` in the `QgsBookmarksProxyModel` constructor to get case insensitive sorting to work.

One last very minor problem: the title of the Spatial Bookmarks Panel somehow acquired an ampersand in one of the commits. It shows as "Sp&atial"... -- `qgsbookmarksbase.ui` is the affected file.

Thank you very much.
