Ok, but i don't understand why it's in QGIS 2.18.14 desktop in the osgeo4w packages.

It should not be there.

oh ok, you mean the ploint cluster functions are 3.0 but point cluster symbology is >= 2.18. Sorry.

So in the 2.18, you can only display circles but no count. So, it's not very useful because users will note understant what are this circles. Anyway, i ll find an other way like a svg icon.

Thanks for answering
