Click on the eye icon, showing a widget with layers and options

It could be nice to be able to resize the widget and avoid scrolling

it is a QMenu, I don't think it's feasible at the moment

see https://stackoverflow.com/questions/22812171/is-it-possible-to-create-a-resizable-qmenu

The other approach was to use QgsFloatingWidget but it would have been messy with event handling.

I would recommend taking experts advices here...
