Description

I noticed that, when reopening Qgis, all the changes previously made inside the labeling "Engine settings" (Search methods, Show all labels,...) are lost. Defaults values are restored.

Is it possible to store these settings inside a project file?

Hi Giovanni,

I reopened this because only the 'show all labels' is currently saved per layer. All the settings for the labeling engine in the noted dialog are still not saved anywhere. Those could be saved/reloaded at the project level, as Michele indicated.

Hi,

This should be fixed in master with commit commit:bab4395

Also added ability to remove those settings, and a means of restoring defaults.
