Description
User are able to close issues they have opened on the QGIS desktop project. But they are unable to close issues they have opened on a plugin project. Is this intended? Or do the owners of each plugin project have control of this?

Similarly, users can edit their comments on the QGIS desktop project, but not on the plugin projects.

But they are unable to close issues they have opened on a plugin project.

Neither can they close issues they have opened on the QGIS Redmine project...
