

QGIS Application - Bug report #6173

load SLD symbology issue

Crashes QGIS or corrupts data:	Copied to github as #: 15490
Description
I have produced a rule based style that includes line patterns. I've saved the style as both SLD and QML. When I use the QGIS "load style" command on the same shapefile or another one with the same schema, the QML style is successfully loaded, while the SLD has trouble with the line patterns (i.e., it just defaults to one pattern) and the transparency (i.e., no transparency upon load). I've attached a zip file containing a sample shapefile with both SLD and equivalent QML symbology so that you can replicate the issue. Thanks!

Hi,

you must test qgis-master, there have been fixes about SLD support after qgis 1.8 was released. Please test again and report back. Cheers.

- File floodplain2.sld added

Still the same issue. Here's what I did:

- I got the MASTER installed. Loaded the test shapefile and the QML style (both included in the original ZIP attachment) which were successful as expected.
- I saved the style as SLD. I'm attaching the new SLD file created with the MASTER (noticed some tag changes compared to 1.8 sld version but nothing major).
- Reloaded the shapefile and this time with the new SLD file and found the same behavior as with 1.8

I'd appreciate your insight.

Thanks,
