

QGIS Application - Bug report #7892

columns order in vector properties -> fields is wrong

Description

it seems that ordering of columns in the "Fields" tab of vector properties is not the same that the user sees when it opens the table of attributes.

Should be a regression.

Does for me.

Does it really matter the order is different. The field tab can also be sorted.

it works for you? Here it doesn't, see attached images as user I would expect to see the same order, it is handy especially for tables with a lot of columns.

Yes is sortable, but seems that also sorting is not working as expected, at least the the internal column is seems to be threated as text and not as number.
