Description
Hopefully a small problem: the manual here: http://qgis.readthedocs.org/en/latest/docs/user_manual/plugins/plugins_gdaltools.html#conversion has a link: http://www.gdal.org/gdal-rasterize.html which is broken. I looked on the gdal site FAQs which gets one here: http://trac.osgeo.org/gdal/wiki/FAQRaster#CanIusegdal_rasterizetogeneratenon-solidpolygons linking to this: http://lists.maptools.org/pipermail/gdal-dev/2006-June/009294.html which is missing. If anyone knows people responsible for these links, please pass this on. If anyone knows where there's documentation on the rasterize plugin, specifically what option one has to select to result in 10x10m raster pixels, please let me know. Thanks Simon

History

I think it should be http://www.gdal.org/gdal\_rasterize.html instead of <http://www.gdal.org/gdal-rasterize.html>

I will fix it in both 1.8 and master
